Introduction

My 'Shakespeare Songs' were originally composed to fit the German translation by Schlegel and Tieck, an amazing literary achievement of the early nineteenth century, perfectly matched to the English original. I later produced a second version, based directly on the English text. It turned out that the Schlegel and Tieck translation was so close to the English original, that only a few minor alterations were necessary, e. g. two quavers substituted for a crochet. There is only one exception. At the beginning of no.5 I had to change the order of words, for which I request the poet's permission.

Gottfried Stein

The words by William Shakespeare

1. Spring

When daisies pied and violets blue and lady-smocks all silver-white and cuckoo-buds of yellow hue do paint the meadows with delight,
the cuckoo then, on every tree,
mocks married men; for thus sings he:
 cuckoo,
cuckoo, cuckoo. O word of fear, unpleasing to a married ear!

When shepherds pipe on oaten straws, and merry larks are ploughmen's clocks, when turtles tread, and rooks, and daws, and maidens bleach their summer smocks,
the cuckoo then, on every tree,
mocks married men; for thus sings he:
 cuckoo,
cuckoo, cuckoo. O word of fear, unpleasing to a married ear!

2. Winter

When icicles hang by the wall, and Dick, the shepherd blows his nail,
and Tom bears logs into the hall,
and milk comes frozen home in pail, when blood is nipp'd, and ways be foul,
then nightly sings the staring owl,
 tu-who;
to-whit tu-who – a merry note,
while greasy Joan doth keel the pot.

When all aloud the wind doth blow, and coughing drowns the parson's saw,
and birds sit brooding in the snow, and Marian's nose looks red and raw,
when roasted crabs hiss in the bowl,
then nightly sings the staring owl,
 tu-who;
to-whit tu-who – a merry note,
while greasy Joan doth keel the pot.

3. Balthasar's Song

Sigh no more, ladies, sigh no more,
men were deceivers ever;
one foot on sea, and one on shore, to one thing constant never.
 Then sigh not so,
 but let them go,
 and be you blithe and bonny,
 converting all your sounds of woe
 into hey nonny nonny.

Sing no more ditties, sing no mo of dumps so dull and heavy;
the fraud of men was ever so,
since summer first was leavy.
 Then sigh not so,
 but let them go,
 and be you blithe and bonny,
 converting all your sounds of woe
 into hey nonny nonny.

4. Come away, death

Come away, come away, death, and in sad cypress let me be laid;
fly away, fly away, breath,
I am slain by a fair cruel maid.
My shroud of white, stuck all with yew, o! prepare it.
My part of death, no one so true
did share it.

Not a flower, not a flower sweet,
on my black coffin let there be strown;
not a friend, not a friend greet my poor corpse, where my bones shall be thrown.
A thousand thousand sighs to save, lay me, o! where
sad true lovers never find my grave, to weep there.

5. Love, love

Love, love, nothing but love, still more!
For, oh! love's bow
shoots buck and doe:
the shaft confounds,
but not it wounds,
but tickles still the sore.

These lovers cry o! o! they die!
Yet that which seems the wound to kill, doth turn o! o! to ha! ha! ha!
so dying love lives still:
o! o! a while, but ha! ha! ha!
o. o. groans out for ha! ha! ha!

6. Spell

On the ground
sleep sound ,
I'll apply
to your eye,
gentle lover, remedy.
When thou wak'st,
thou tak'st
true delight
in the sight
of thy former lady's eye:
and the country proverb known, (that every man sould take his own,)
in your waking shall be shown:
Jack shall have Jill;
nought shall go ill;
the man shall have his mare again,
and all shall be well.
